Concept Note

Language is instrumental in constructing meaning and defining associations with our world. As a social phenomenon, it shapes every aspect of our lives and binds us together. Understanding the formal properties of language allows us to produce appropriate utterances. Engagement with functional aspects of language allows us to make sense out of them. Language is used in a socio-cultural context and meanings are derived according to the speaker's situation in the social space. In today's globalised world, interrelations between language, culture and society have provided a multilayered arena of literary, linguistic and socio-cultural researches regarding the human condition. The present seminar is dedicated to undertake a journey to discover Language through various socio-cultural contours; such as: Identity, Gender, Social Class, Culture, Dialects, Bilingualism, Multilingualism, Postcolonialism, Postmodernism and many other Poststructuralist perspectives.

Alongside valuable talks by our resource persons demonstrating how language engages with such varied concepts and perspectives, the seminar also invites original and unpublished research papers from young scholars, students and academicians to explore language and its centrality in organizing our societies.

The sub-themes may include (but not confined to):

- Language
- Society and Cultural Studies
- Language and Gender
- Class, Ethnicity and Marginality
- Cultures of Translation
- Socio-linguistic Approaches
- Study of Scripts
- Language and Performing Arts, etc.

Language, culture, and society are intricately intertwined, forming a complex web of influence and interaction. Each element shapes and is shaped by the others, creating a dynamic system that defines human experience. The two days seminar also addressed these issues in interconnected and multifaceted way. The talks in the seminar brought into focus themes like how both language and culture are socially constructed, how language becomes a cultural artifact, language as a social tool, a powerful tool for expressing and crafting social identities as well as a catalyst for social change. Speakers Prof. Carmen Brandt, Prof. Siddhartha Biswas, Dr. Subhendra Bhowmick, Dr. Dripta Piplai, Dr. Sweta Sinha and Dr. Pinaki Roy all discussed about their respective areas of research and experiences. More than ten paper presentations both offline and online also added another feather to the seminar. By exploring the interface between language, culture, and society, we could gain a deeper understanding of the human experiences and the complex ways in which these elements shape our world. With around 125 participants the seminar was successful in disseminating various constructive academic ideas and discourses across fields.

A BRIEF EVENT REPORT

Program Name: State-Level Seminar and Presentation Competition

Organiser: Department of Geography in collaboration with IQAC

No. of Participants: 56

Date: 7th May, 2024

Time: 11 am to 5 pm

Platform: Mongolalok Auditorium, HMMCW and Google Meet

Brief Report: A State Level Seminar, followed by a Student Presentation Competition, was inaugurated with the planting of a sapling by esteemed guests, including Dr. Sonali Mukherjee, the IQAC Coordinator, and faculty members from the Department of Geography. This event, organized by the Department of Geography in collaboration with the IQAC, was held on May 7th, 2024, to commemorate Earth Day. The department, alongside guest participants, benefited greatly from the insights shared by Mr. Pradip Sengupta, Mr. Kaustav Chaudhuri, and Mr. Ayan Ghosh, who served as resource persons for the occasion.

Centered around the theme "Melody of the Earth," the event aimed to honor Rabindranath Tagore's profound connection with Mother Earth. In the afternoon session, ten students from various colleges delivered PowerPoint presentations on either "Plastic Pollution and Its Impact on the Global Environment" or "Rabindranath Tagore and His Vision of Sustainable Development." These students were selected based on the abstracts they had submitted earlier. Their presentations were evaluated by the resource persons, considering the conceptual clarity, content, and delivery, resulting in Shirsha Dasgupta from Sarojini Naidu College receiving the 1st Prize, Laxmi Dey from Hiralal Mazumdar Memorial College For Women receiving the 2nd Prize, and Arka Murmu from Mrinalini Dutta Mahavidyalay receiving the 3rd Prize.

Outcome: The participants, hailing from various parts of West Bengal, were enlightened by the insightful presentations and speeches delivered by Mr. Pradip Sengupta and Mr. Kaustav Chaudhuri. Mr. Ayan Ghosh's address inspired attendees to explore new avenues in the field of Geo-informatics. In the latter part of the event, students relished the spirit of competition as they competed against peers from different colleges. This platform not only allowed them to showcase their skills but also bolstered their confidence in public speaking and presentation delivery.
